About Security Advisor Middle East

With ever-changing threat landscape and new breed of attacks, organisations in the Middle East continue to face security risks and obstacles. The latest report from CNME Research Hub shows that more than 90 percent of enterprises in the region plan to increase their security budgets, showcasing the importance of security.

Security Advisor Middle East aims to keep security-decision makers ahead of the evolving threats and challenges to their businesses. Be it information security, physical security, business continuity or combating advanced persistent threats, we help our audience create safer and more profitable enterprises.

Security Advisor ME provides news, analysis and research on a broad range of security and risk management topics, through various platforms including print, digital and conferences.
